SUBJECT: Unit Costs for Rhomboids 1. With the surfacing of new cost estimates for the Rhomboids, has asked what options are available to us. He is already aware that is the sole source, so he's not speaking in terms of competitive bidding. Can we in contracting with arrive at a unit cost that is subject to future revision, downward as well as up, as production experience is gained? Can we establish a fixed profit percentage per instrument, etc.? 2. Suggest you might have someone brief John along these lines in the near future.  SIGNATURE

Ch, TSSG -

- Thank you.

- When you present to me the next stage in the Automated Stereo Scanner project, I should also like to hear from concerning the legal-contract aspects of a termination of that contract.
